S. C. STATE LIBRARY

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL
from
THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD

To His Excellency, the Honorable Robert E. McNair, Governor of South Carolina, and to the Honorable Members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

Dear Sirs:

We have the honor to transmit the report of the South Carolina State Library Board for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1967.

During 1967, the General Assembly took the most important step forward for public libraries in 14 years when it authorized a new program of State aid to public libraries based upon an appropriation approximated at .20 per capita. These funds, for the first time, make adequate library services to the citizens of the State a goal which is becoming possible to achieve. This will increase the usefulness of public libraries, both to the individual citizens and to the business community throughout the State.

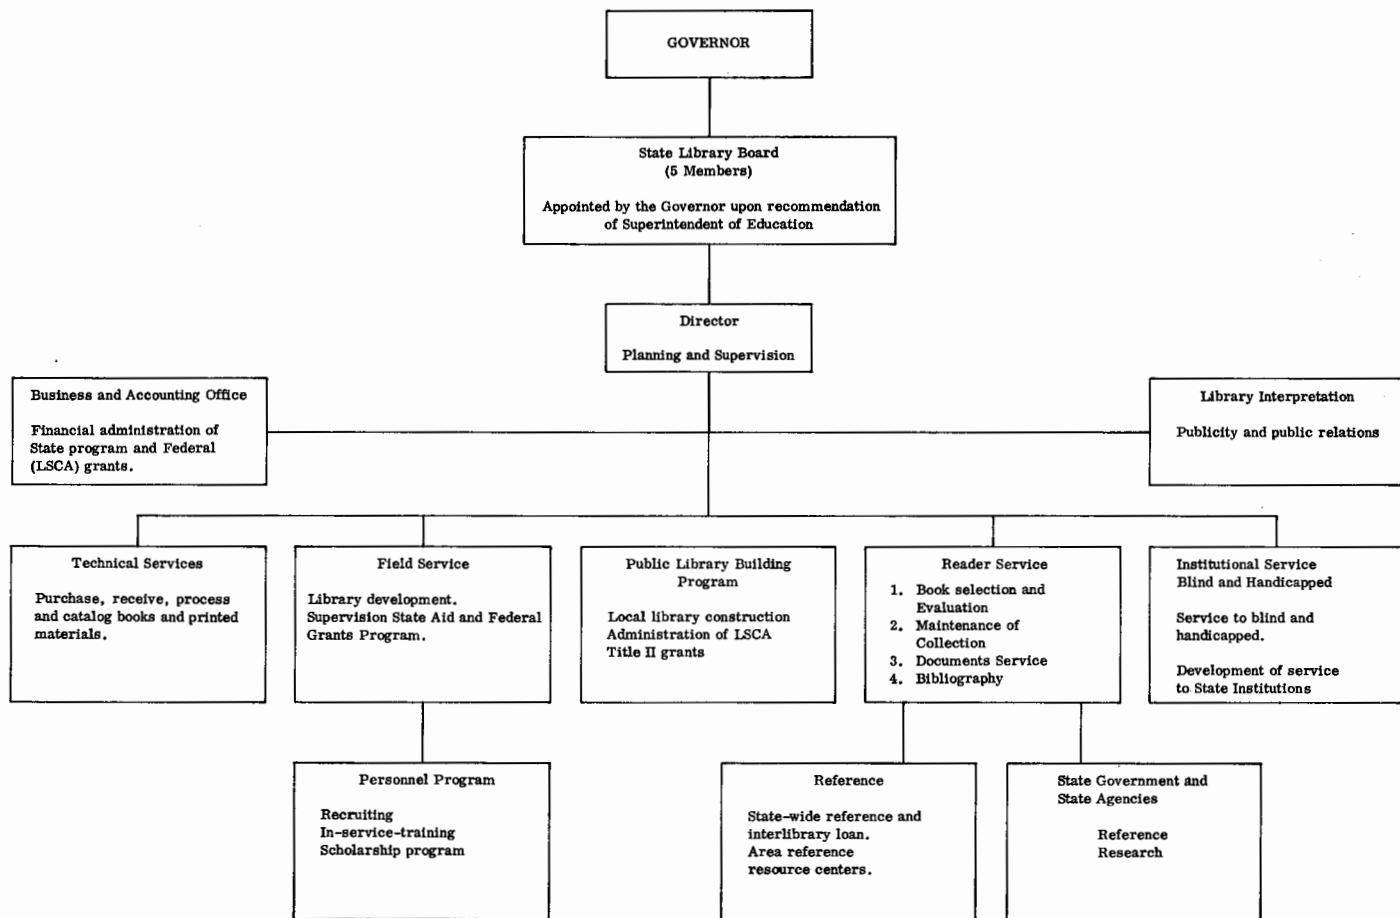

You will note from the report that in services performed by the State Library Board, there has been an increase in activity and usefulness to the public.

The report reflects generally the continuing progress of all libraries in the State, and shows an increased use of libraries generally in South Carolina. The roll of the State Library Board in supplementing and assisting the local public libraries throughout the State is of increasing importance year after year. It is hoped that with the continued cooperation of the Governor and of the Legislature, the library services in South Carolina will continue to grow and improve in quality.

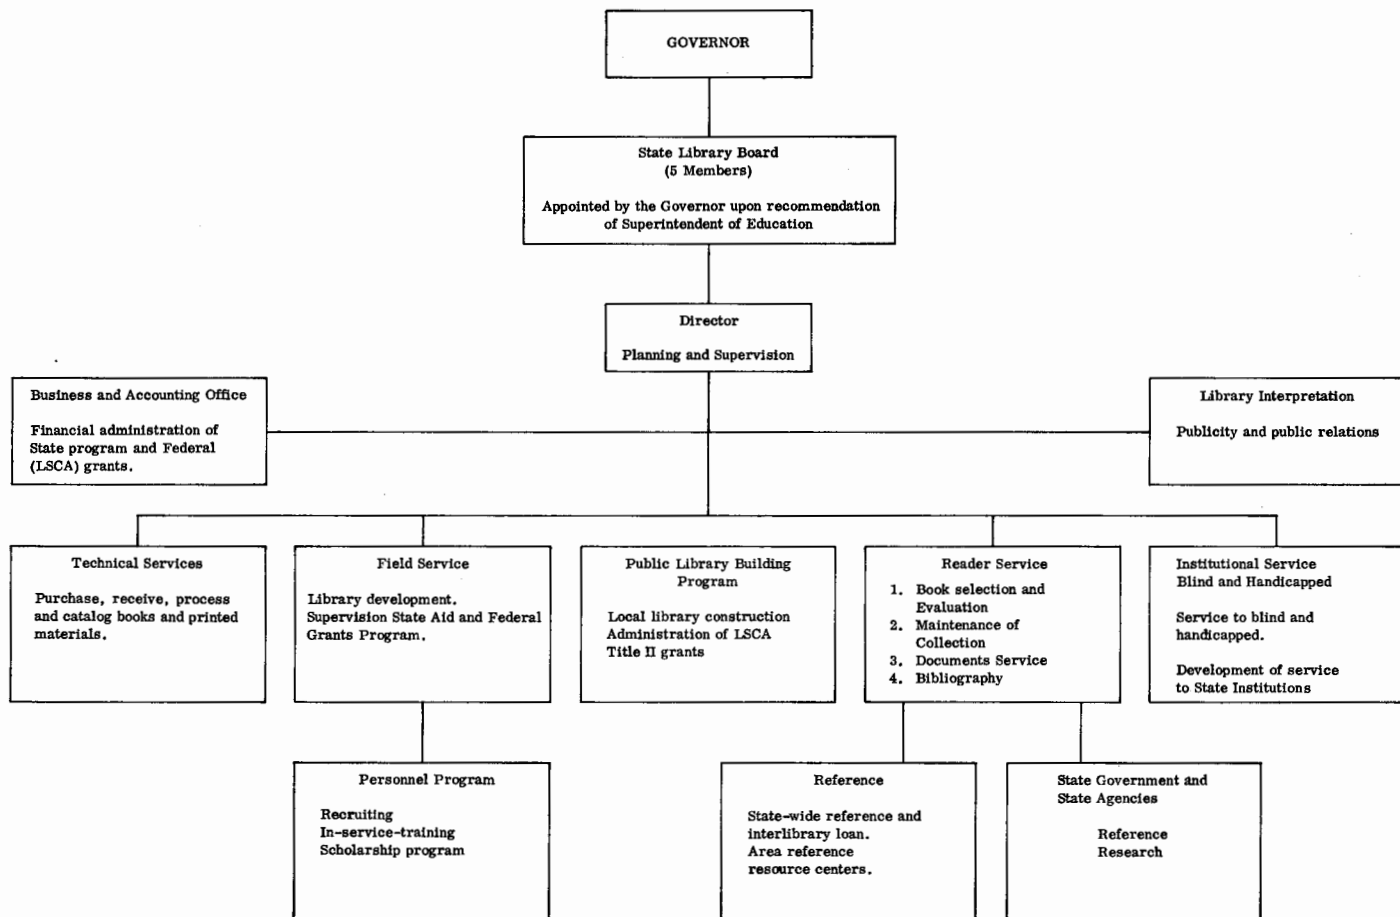

Respectfully submitted,

H. CARLISLE BEAN,
Chairman

TWENTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD

July 1, 1966 - June 30, 1967

The South Carolina State Library Board was established in 1929 by Act of the General Assembly and charged with the responsibility of the extension and improvement of public library service throughout the state. During the 1967 Session of the General Assembly the original act was amended (S. C. Acts and Joint Resolutions, 1967; No. 538) extending the authority and increasing the duties of the State Library Board to include the improvement and establishment of library service in state institutions, the provision of library service to the blind and physically handicapped, the development of programs of interlibrary cooperation to insure the use of the state's total library resources for the benefit of the people of the state, and the provision of library service to state government, state agencies and state employees. The amendment to the original act gives the State Library Board the powers and duties of a general state library and provides the legal basis for state-wide coordination of library service for the benefit of all citizens.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY PROGRAM

The State Library Board is responsible for the continued development and revision of an overall state plan for a network of county and regional libraries to serve the people of the state. By the close of the 1967 Session of the General Assembly every county in the state had been given the legal authority to establish county-wide public library service. The development of adequate public library systems throughout the state continues to be a major responsibility of the Board. This responsibility is discharged primarily through the Field Service Division which provides immediate, on-the-spot assistance to public library systems in solving problems of development and extension of service. With few exceptions the people of South Carolina are served by county or regional libraries representing unified systems serving the cities, villages, and rural districts of an entire area. This type of system, eliminating duplication of administration, overhead, book collections, and equipment, has made possible a higher level of library service in the state than would otherwise been possible. Only two counties in the state, Darlington and Marion, still maintain more than one public library supported from tax funds.

STATE AID FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

During 1967 public library trustees, interested citizens and librarians joined in a campaign to secure an increase in State Aid for public libraries. For 14 years State Aid has been set at $1,500 per qualifying county library system. Although county and regional libraries were receiving a reasonable proportion of the local tax dollar, it had become apparent that an increase in State Aid was essential if the public libraries of the state were to meet the demands of a rapidly increasing reading public. The requirements of business and industry for up-to-date information represented a legitimate demand which libraries were unable to meet entirely from local funds. The General Assembly, recognizing the need, authorized a new program of State Aid to public libraries based upon 20¢ per capita. Public libraries will be able to use these additional funds for the purchase of books, materials, equipment and the employment of qualified personnel.

COUNTIES WITHOUT COUNTY-WIDE LIBRARY SERVICE

During the 1967 Session of the General Assembly legislation was enacted which will enable the counties of Clarendon, McCormick and Williamsburg to establish county-wide library service. These three counties, plus Chesterfield County which already had the legal authority to establish a county library, represent the only four counties in the state without county-wide public library service. In each of these counties where a municipal public library exists, the services of the State Library Board are available to the people of the community and county. In addition to these general services, the State Library Board has developed a special project to aid the county in establishing county-wide service. Participating in the Small Libraries Project this year was the Kingstree Library, Williamsburg County. Through this project a special book collection was provided for the Kingstree Library which furnished a constantly changing collection of fiction and non-fiction. The Kingstree Library opened its doors to the people of the county and is in effect providing public library service to all county residents who are able to visit and use it.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICE

The State Library Board provides a unique service to public libraries throughout South Carolina in serving as a central resource for reference and interlibrary loan requests. No public library in the state has the materials or personnel to adequately fill all requests received. Requests which cannot be handled locally are referred to the State Library Board's reference and interlibrary loan service. Through this service the rare and highly technical book is available to the patron of a local library and, in addition, the reference staff of the State Library Board handles requests for information which require more extensive reference resources than are available locally. During the year the State Library Board received 8,200 requests for interlibrary loan materials and 1,702 requests for information and reference service. In order to adequately fill the requests received, the book collections which support this service must become increasingly comprehensive and more fully indexed in depth.

SERVICE TO THE BLIND

The South Carolina State Library Board provides library service to the blind through a regional library for the blind operated cooperatively with North Carolina. The two states share the cost of the service on a per capita basis. The service is furnished the visually handicapped at no personal cost to them. The talking book machines are furnished by the Commission for the Blind and the regional library supplies "talking books" and periodicals as well as books in Braille. Books are available for children as well as for adults and all are furnished without charge to the regional library by the Library of Congress.

During the year 650 adults and 35 children were active users of the service. Every county in the state is represented among the registered borrowers of the regional library.

IN-SERVICE TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES

Under the auspices of the State Library Board Miss Jewel Hardkopf, Library Management Specialist, gave a three-day workshop on personnel utilization. The object of the workshop was to teach chief librarians how to make the best possible use of their personnel in providing better service to the public.

The reference division gave a two-day workshop for pre-professional personnel on the use of reference materials. The workshop was held in Columbia and was attended by some 14 library staff members who share responsibility for the provisions of reference service.

LIBRARY PROGRESS DURING THE YEAR

The plans for the State Library Board's new building were completed. Construction will begin early in August 1967.

Bills authorizing the establishment of county-wide library service in Clarendon, McCormick and Williamsburg Counties were enacted by the 1967 Legislature.

The new headquarters building of the Orangeburg County Library was completed and opened for service.

Construction on the headquarters building for the Sumter County Library system was begun with a completion date set for early 1968.

Construction grants were awarded the Richland County Library for a branch in the St. Andrews area and to the York County Library for a branch in the town of York.

An experiment in the use of the Magnavox Telecopier for the rapid transferral of facsimile information was conducted by the reference staff of the State Library Board in cooperation with the Greenville and Charleston county libraries.

State Aid for public libraries was increased from $1,500 per county to a figure based on 20¢ per capita of the total county population.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Curley of Arthur D. Little, Inc. surveyed Greenville and Spartanburg Counties for the optimum location for branch libraries.

The Florence County Library completed a three-year demonstration of county-wide library service in cooperation with the State Library Board.

The York County Library entered into a contract with the State Library Board for a three-year demonstration of county-wide library service.

FEDERAL AID TO S. C. PUBLIC LIBRARIES

The South Carolina State Library Board administers funds under the Library Services and Construction Act for the development of public library service, the construction of adequate public library buildings, the development of state institutional library service, the establishment of interlibrary cooperative systems and the provision of library service to the blind and physically handicapped. The funds are granted to South Carolina on the basis of a plan for the use of federal funds prepared by the State Library Board. The amount of funds granted to the state is determined by the ratio of the state's total population and per capita income to the national average. In administering the program the State Library Board makes grants to county and regional libraries on the basis of a series of projects planned to remedy the major deficiencies in public library service in the state. Grants are made to aid county and regional library boards in the construction of adequate headquarters and branch buildings. In the initial year of operation funds under Title III (Interlibrary Cooperation) and under Titles IV-A and IV-B (Institutional Library Service and Service to the Handicapped) were available for planning only.

LSCA PROJECTS

ADMINISTRATION: The Administration Project is responsible for the planning of the entire program, securing funds to implement the program, accounting for these funds and reporting on use of funds and on progress of the library program. The Field Services staff provide the supervision and on-the-spot assistance essential for the success of local projects financed through grant funds. In addition to these responsibilities the field staff makes a careful evaluation each year of projects in progress.

REFERENCE AND INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICE: The Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service provides essential resource of more sophisticated material and a higher level of reference service as a resource for all public libraries in the state in filling the needs of local library patrons. The project serves the general public through requests referred from the local library systems. Many requests for information are filled from the field of business and industry, since no local library has a collection of materials adequate to support the increasing volume of requests for technical information from business men and industrialists. In order to provide faster and better service on reference requests, the periodical holdings of all South Carolina libraries, including business, special and university, are being computerized in order to make the location of information contained in periodicals immediately available. In addition to this a vertical file of reference material relating to the political, social and economic life of South Carolina is being developed and an experiment in the use of telefacsimile communication between libraries was conducted during the last three months of the fiscal year.

PERSONNEL PROJECTS: Since an adequate supply of librarians with the training and experience necessary to administer library programs and staff local libraries is essential for library progress, the State Library Board conducts an extensive Personnel Program designed to recruit, train and employ qualified professional and pre-professional librarians for South Carolina libraries.

Intern Program: The Intern Program is designed to attract qualified young people to the field of librarianship. The project provides summer internships for college students to give them an opportunity under expert supervision to explore the field of librarianship in an actual work experience. During the summer of 1966, fifteen interns were placed in ten county and regional libraries. Of these young people two have already applied for graduate library scholarships and several are employed in either college or public libraries in the state.

Scholarship Program: This program is designed to aid in supplying adequately trained professional librarians for South Carolina public libraries. Each year five or more scholarships of $2,500 each are awarded to college graduates of outstanding ability for one year's attendance at a graduate library school accredited by the American Library Association. Each scholarship recipient is sponsored by a county or regional library in the state. During 1966-67 seven scholarship winners were in graduate library school. These recipients were sponsored by the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library, the Florence County Library, the Spartanburg County Library, the Richland County Library and the State Library Board. The Scholarship Program is helping to remedy one of the major weaknesses of the public library program—a shortage of adequately trained professional librarians. The scholarship graduates and other graduates who have returned to South Carolina in the twelve years since the initiation of this program have helped immeasurably in implementing the state plan for library development and in strengthening the total library program in South Carolina.

In-Service Training Opportunities: In order to improve library service immediately, the State Library Board makes available to pre-professional and professional library personnel already employed opportunities for additional training in the field of librarianship. The scholarship grants are given for regular courses in librarianship or for attendance at special workshops, institutes, or professional meetings which will contribute to the individual's professional competence. During the year twenty-three libraries including thirty counties were directly affected by this project. A number of these counties participated in more than one activity under the project. Thirteen pre-professional staff members from eight county and regional libraries were awarded scholarships to attend workshops in library science. Six professional librarians were given grants to attend the annual conference and pre-conference institutes of the American Library Association. The chief cataloger of the State Library Board received a special grant to attend a month long institute on the new cataloging code which was held at the University of Illinois.

The Salary Supplement Program: In order to relieve the pressure on local funds and to help the local library to compete for professional personnel, the State Library Board provides a Salary Supplement Program for the professional librarian employed at the local level. Through this program it has been possible for local library systems to employ additional professional personnel and to retain present staff. Libraries participating in this project are required to develop a classification and pay plan for the library.

COUNTY LIBRARY PROJECT: The County Library Project is designed to improve public library service by developing library systems of sufficient size and strength to provide good service. Participants in this project serve as models of recommended practices and procedures to other libraries in the state. The Florence County Library completed its third and final year of a three-year demonstration program. The program in Florence County was particularly successful. The initial aim of providing good library service for all county residents through a consolidated library system was largely achieved. The success of this project contributed to the reorganization of library systems in two neighboring counties and has stimulated a reassessment of library programs in other counties.

The York County Library demonstration completed its first year. The major accomplishment of this project has been the amalgamation of five library boards and five library units into a single library system serving the entire area. Initial difficulties have been worked out to a considerable degree and current progress is evident.

REGIONAL LIBRARY PROJECT: The Regional Library Project is designed to give small counties an opportunity to coordinate their library service through the establishment of regional systems composed of two or more counties with a population totaling not less than 100,000. Through the sharing of materials, resources, equipment and personnel, the larger system is able to provide library service at a higher level than any of the participating county libraries could individually provide.

The Aiken-Bamberg-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional Library completed the third year of a four-year demonstration designed to extend public library service to Bamberg County. This demonstration has been particularly effective and has resulted in the provision of a good level of public library service throughout Bamberg County.

The Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library completed its first year of a five-year demonstration program. Since Greenwood County already had a good level of service, the immediate and primary task of the new regional library was the provision of adequate library service for Abbeville County. This challenge was met successfully with library service maintained at a high level in Greenwood County and extended to Abbeville County.

BOOK COLLECTION IMPROVEMENT PROJECT: A basic and continuing need for the improvement of public library service is the increase in quantity and quality of books available at both state and local levels. Since the beginning of the Library Services and Construction Act Program in 1956, the State Library Board has conducted annual grant programs designed to improve the local book collection. During 1967 twenty-one county and regional libraries qualified for book grants based on 10¢ per capita. Participating libraries received over $174,000 in grant funds for the purchase of books. All books were chosen from standard book selection tools. The majority of libraries used the book grant funds to strengthen the book collection by filling known gaps and adding titles which could not be covered by local funds. In some cases, a portion of the funds were used to strengthen specific subject areas such as science and technology or the fine arts. The project made possible the purchase of or rebinding of some 60,000 volumes for use in South Carolina public libraries.

PERIODICAL PROJECT: The State Library Board provides an annual grant to supplement local funds for the purchase of an extensive collection of periodicals. Eighteen library systems serving twenty-one counties participated in the Periodicals Project this year. This project has increased the library's resources in business, science, and technology and because of this the library is better able to serve the business and professional people of the community.

THE CATCH-UP PROJECT: The "Catch-Up" Project is designed to assist those libraries which have not previously been able to qualify for participation in the grant program to "catch-up" with libraries which have been receiving grants. The project extends over a two-year period with each qualifying library receiving a grant of $2,500 each year. Grant funds are spent to acquire books, materials, and equipment needed to keep the service comparable to that provided by other libraries in the state. During the year three libraries participated in this project: the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library, the York County Library and the Lancaster County Library.

LIBRARY INTERPRETATION: In order to inform the public of the services available through the local public library and library service at state level, the State Library Board conducts an extensive publicity and public relations program. The prime objective of the program is to fully inform the general public on existing public library services and to encourage the further use of these services by the public. A continuing effort is made to reach the non-library user with information about services available and useful to him. Because of this program there is a greater awareness in South Carolina of the libraries which serve the state and of the services which they provide.

of this program there is a greater awareness in South Carolina of the libraries which serve the state and of the services which they provide.

In interpreting the public library to its public all news media are used. Periodic news releases are made to South Carolina's seventeen dailys and eighty-one weekly or bi-weekly newspapers and to the daily papers in neighboring states which are widely circulated in South Carolina. The radio is used for continuing programs and for spot announcements. An occasional documentary on library service is produced in cooperation with the ETV network and used over all of these stations and over commercial stations. Various types of brochures, folders, posters, and flyers are used to support the various library programs and projects conducted by the State Library Board. Two special exhibits were arranged and used during the year. One of these was an exhibit emphasizing job opportunities in South Carolina public libraries and the second exhibit emphasized the values of reading for rural men and women.

The Library Interpretation Program benefits the state public library program and also the programs of the local public libraries. More people have been made aware of the library and of its potential contribution to their personal growth and development and to their success to business and industry. With better understanding of the library and of the services it provides, both local library programs and state library programs are receiving better public support.

THE THREE NEW PROGRAMS

The Library Services and Construction Act was extended this year to include three new programs: Title III—Interlibrary Cooperation, Title IV-A—Institutional Library Service, and Title IV-B—Library Service for the Handicapped. During this initial year funds were provided only for planning and no programs were initiated. As a first step in providing service under the three new titles, legislation was enacted by the General Assembly extending the authority of the State Library Board to include library service to state institutions and to the handicapped.

TITLE III—INTERLIBRARY COOPERATION: As the initial step in the program of interlibrary cooperation an Advisory Council was appointed representing the major college and university libraries of the State, libraries of business and industry and special libraries. The Council met to discuss the possibilities under the program of coordinating library resources in the State for the service of the people of the State.

A major experimental program was conducted under Title III in an attempt to find a suitable system for reducing the time span in handling referred information and interlibrary loan requests from public libraries in South Carolina. The experiment was a three-month demonstration with the Xerox Magnavox Telecopier, a telefacsimile communication device. The experiment involved a triangular link-up among the State Library Board, the Charleston County Library and the Greenville County Library. The quality of the telefacsimile communication was excellent. No difficulties were encountered with the operation of the machine. The cost for maintaining and using the telecopier network, however, makes it prohibitive for use in the present system in the state. The relatively infrequent use made by the two county libraries of the telecopier during the actual on-the-job experimental demonstration renders the maintenance of this telefacsimile communication system impractical at the present time.

TITLE IV-A — STATE INSTITUTIONAL LIBRARY SERVICE AND TITLE IV-B—LIBRARY SERVICE FOR THE PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED: The initial step in planning a program under these two titles was the appointment of an Advisory Council for each. The Advisory Council for Title IV-A includes representatives of all State institutions. This Council met to discuss the possibility of developing a program of library service in State institutions. The initial step is to be a survey of the present level of institutional library service in South Carolina. The Advisory Council under Title IV-B—Library Service to the Handicapped represents all agencies and organizations serving this facet of the population. This Council met once to discuss the program to be conducted under this title during the coming year. It was agreed that the best method of getting service started immediately was to expand the present North Carolina-South Carolina Regional Library for the Blind to include service to the handicapped.
